COLUMBIA, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY October 6 1920.

NUMBER 50.

MRS. R. F. ROWE.

Her Speech Introducing Senator Beckham.

Mr. Chairman and Fellow Citizens—As I look out over this assemblage of people I feel that there are those present who at this moment are wondering what a woman, who wants to go to polls and vote, thinks or believes. So I want to tell you some of the things we believe.

We believe, that in the teachings of the Savor of mankind, we may find a solution for all the problems that come to the human family.

We believe, in the brother of man. That God created of one blood all the nations of earth.

We believe in political parties as a means to an end. In the present political campaign we align ourselves with the democratic party, because, that party, more nearly than any other, has embodied in its platform the ideals and principles in which we believe.

In this campaign we feel that our issue is paramount, that it overshadows all others. This issue is the elimination of war, the perpetuation of peace.

Woman opposes war, not because she lacks courage, it takes courage for a mother to rise out of the dust and ashes, of ruin, to rear her fatherless children, to fight the battles of poverty, vice and immorality that follow war. It takes more real courage to do this than it takes to die on the battle field.

War is the greatest sin of the ages. We are the mothers of the human family and protest against reckless destruction of human life. We protest against the existence and toleration of an evil, which in an hour, destroys the social structure which ages, even centuries of patient toil have reared.

We protest against the destruction of the world's capital and civilization by war. We recognize these as the rightful heritage of future generations. We consider it our special duty and God giving privilege to start each generation toward a higher and better humanity.

In the world war the nations enacted the greatest, darkest and the bloodiest tragedy the world has ever seen. As an outcome of their world struggle and for the healing, of an agonizing and bleeding humanity, we have the League of Nations, the product of the combined thought of the master minds of the world. The League of Nations now comes, before our people as a campaign issue. And now, pausing for a moment and brushing aside political affiliations, we want to plead for the League of Nations.

We believe the wisest and noblest thing our country can do is to enter this League with the other nations. We want peace for ourselves, peace for our children and peace for the world. Of our two great political parties, one the democratic party sees in this League of Nations an instrument of peace. An instrument for putting behind us the brutality, the savagry and the inhumanity of war.

We have with us to-day a representative of that party, an honorable upright christian gentleman. One whose private as well as his public life is above reproach, one who at all times has the courage of his convictions, one who has been a life long democrat and served his state and nation with honor and distinction, one for whom together with James M. Cox and Ralph Gilbert we shall be glad to cast our ballot in November, believing that it will be a vote for practical christianity, with a forward look to higher and better things.

It now gives me great pleasure to introduce to you Senator J. W. C. Beckham, who will address you on the issues of the present political campaign.

For Sale.

AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Mr. Wyatt Smith Resignedly Met His God Sunday Morning at 9:30 O'clock.

The death of the subject of this writing which occurred on the above named date, was not a surprise, as it was generally known in the community that he was rapidly approaching the end. He was ready and met the inevitable calmly. He was born and reared in Columbia, a son of Mr. Ethan and Margaret Smith, and was 39 years old the 14 of last August. From his youth he led an exemplary life, and some years ago he made a profession of his faith in Christ, united with the Baptist Church, and lived his religion day in and day out. It is said of him, no young man ever died in Columbia who was more consistent with his profession. Upright in all his dealings. His language was chaste and he never engaged in any character of frivolity—a model young man, doing all the good he could. He loved his sisters, and was better satisfied when he knew they were happy and contented. He has gone, but he left a priceless heritage, a good name, and his kind deeds will not be forgotten by those who were near and dear to him. He was well-known over the county, having been in business on the northeast side of the square for a number of years.

He leaves three sisters, Miss Bettie Smith, Mrs. Jas. R. Wilson and Miss Mamie Smith, three nieces, children of Mrs. Lillie Smith, his sister-in-law.

The funeral services were held in the Baptist church Monday afternoon conducted by Rev. J. B. DeGarmo, assisted by Rev. Leslie J. B. Smith. Both ministers paid high tribute to his life and Christian character.

The interment was in the city cemetery, his grave bedecked with many beautiful floral offerings.

This town is in the deepest sympathy for his sisters and other relatives.

Again in Charge of Our Job Department.

Mr. J. C. Strange, who is well-known over Adair and adjoining counties as an artistic job-printer, is again with the Adair County News and is in full charge of the Job-department. He served the office for something like eleven consecutive years, before he took his leave, two years ago. His capacity for doing very acceptable work, is not only known in Adair, but in all adjoining counties where his work has gone and where it will continue to go. He will take pleasure in giving figures on all work coming to the office and will dispatch it rapidly. Our presses are constantly going, the very best material being used. Our prices will be consistent with good business, and satisfaction is guaranteed. Mr. Strange's many friends, who desire to talk business with him, will be given a cordial welcome.

Meeting at Baptist Church.

The meeting at the Baptist Church is being well attended, especially at the evening services. Evangelist J. B. Degarmo, is not a stranger to this community, having conducted a meeting here some years ago. He is a Biblical scholar and speaks with great force. The song service is conducted by Mr. Sam Elsey, who has been a leader in evangelistic meetings several years. The choir is made up with some of the best singers of the community. The meeting will likely continue through this week. The public is extended a cordial invitation.

To remove billous impurities in the system and be made internally clean and healthy, you need the fine tonic and laxative properties of Herbine. It acts quickly and thoroughly. Price, 60c. Sold by Paul Drug Co.

OIL NEWS.

[BY E. T. KEMPER.]

After prolonged delays in getting certain shipments of equipment, same being absolutely necessary with which to begin drilling operations, the Palmer Oil & Gas Company are now fitted out in good shape and drilling the Sam Royse farm is being pushed as fast as possible.

Dr. J. W. Goggin, Chicago, Vice-president and general manager of the Beacon Oil Syndicate, accompanied by his wife, has been spending several days in the Creelsboro section looking after drilling operations of the Company there. On well No. 1 they report a good show of oil at 300 feet, but they have decided to go down to a lower sand where they look for a better strike.

Mr. Frank Sweet, in charge of drilling operations for the Bagged Company in the Creelsboro section, was here last week looking and waiting for certain repairs for their drilling rig that have been on the road for some time past. They have been tied up in their work for several days on account of the delay.

Mr. G. A. Roy, president and general manager of the Roy Petroleum Company, spent some time here last week. He reported they had gotten rid of the trouble they were having on Damron's Creek, and they are now making satisfactory progress in drilling.

Mr. Lilburn Phelps, Louisville, president, and Mr. Morton E. Weldy, Bowling Green, secretary and general manager, of the McMead Oil Company, were here last week on their way to Jamestown where they went to attend the regular annual meeting of the stockholders of that Company. They report the affairs of the Company as being in good shape and future prospects as very promising.

Mr. Elmo Pearce, one of the "live wire" oil men of this section, made a short trip to Cumberland County and northern Tennessee last week looking after the interests of some of his clients from Oklahoma. He reports the outlook in that section for good production as very encouraging.

A goodly number of operators and others interested in oil development have been visiting this section recently, and those who were not already interested in holdings here secured acreage before leaving; and they expect to return at no distant date. Among them were Mr. S. D. Jarvis, Newkirk, Okla.; Mr. T. A. Sheridan, Cincinnati, Ohio; Mr. Geo. D. Stout, St. Mary's, West Va.; Mr. A. D. Wells, Wheeling, West Va.; Mr. E. M. Cowdin, Warsaw, New York; Mr. J. B. Doolittle, Worcester, N. Y.; J. H. Culver, Decatur, Ill.

The Carnahan Oil Company, after a shut down of several days waiting for repairs for rig, are again drilling on the Ingaam farm near town. They have just had another rig shipped in and same is being taken to Creelsboro where they will drill on the old Jackman farm near where a well was drilled some years ago.

Mr. W. C. Eyl, a well-known oil geologist from Lexington, Ky., has been spending several days in Adair County lately exploring certain sections of the County for parties who expect to operate here soon, but they do not care to give out any information for publication at this time.

A number of land owners in this immediate section are taking a very arbitrary stand in regard to leasing their lands for Oil and Gas development by holding out either for large bonuses or else demanding that operations be commenced on their premises before they will sign a lease. By taking this stand they are not only retarding development in the community, but they are standing in their own light as well. If everyone would do everything in their power to encourage rather than discourage the oil men who are daily coming into this territory, it would not be long until the business would assume mammoth proportions, and money would simply "pour" into our midst.

Born, to the wife of Lawrence Crandall, Oct. 4, a fine girl.

Married in Louisville.

Last Friday Mr. Paul Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Marshall, Glenville, this county, and Miss Mollie Epperson, daughter of Mr. T. J. Epperson, this place, left here for Louisville, where they were happily married.

This union is the result of a long courtship. The bride is a splendid young lady, and for more than year she has been connected with her brother-in-law, Mr. Wyatt Conover, in conducting a soft drink stand in this place. She is a very modest young lady, one who has many friends. The groom is popular and a very industrious young man—knows how to make a living.

Immediately after the rites were solemnized the couple left for Akron, Ohio, where the groom is employed. The best wishes of Columbia go with them.

My home in Tutt addition is for sale. It is a five room cottage, good water and in a good neighborhood.

Reduction in The Price of Ford Products

The war is over and war prices must go. Effective at once. Ford Cars, Trucks and Tractors will be sold F. O. B. Detroit, at the following prices:

Touring	$440.00	Chassis	$360.00
Touring, Starter	$510.00	Coupe, Starter and D. R.	$745.00
Runabout	$395.00	Sedan, Starter, and D. R.	$795.00
Runabout, Starter	$465.00	Truck, P. T.	$545.00
Tractor	$790.00

The Ford Motor Company makes this reduction in the face of the fact that they have on hand immediate orders for one hundred and forty-six thousand and sixty-five cars and tractors. The Company will suffer a temporary loss while using up the material bought at high prices. They are willing to make the sacrifice in order to bring business back to a going condition as quickly as possible and maintain the momentum of the buying power of the country. Henry Ford says:

"The war is over and it is time war prices were over. There is no sense or wisdom in trying to maintain an artificial standard of values. For the best interest of all it is time a real, practical effort was made to bring the business of the country and the life of the country down to regular pre-war standards."

We are at your command with regular Ford Efficiency in service and eagerness to fill your orders.

Roosevelt Led Strenuous Life.

It takes a he-man to travel in wake of a Roosevelt on a campaign tour. If you don't believe it ask any member of Franklin D. Roosevelt's whirlwind tour of the northwest.

The trip had't been a week long until members of the party began saying it was one of the most strenuous trips in its history.

Covered nearly 8,000 miles from coast to coast and from north to south.

Worked on the average of 15 hours a day.

Spoke to approximately 650,000 people.

Shook hands with nearly 500,000 men and women.

Traveled 800 miles by motor.

Kisses 16 babies.

Made about 500 speeches.

Dictated more than 1,000 letters.

Spent more than 100 hours in conference with national committeemen.

Saw the greater part of 17 states in 19 days.

And despite the full program Roosevelt found time to.

Go swimming three times.

Play 72 holes of golf, one game of tennis, and several dozen games of rummy.

Read every local paper in towns where he stopped.

Frame jokes on all members of his party.

Write a report for Governor Cox.

So it would appear that Franklin D. Roosevelt can satisfy the wildest hopes of those who wish for strenuousity. In fact, he is "Pep, personified."

WOMEN IN BOTH PARTIES AGREE

While Opposed In Political Campaign They Are United On Kentucky School Problems

Mrs. John W. Langley, Chairman Woman's Division Republican Campaign Committee, gave your correspondent the following interview concerning the new school laws and the coming election of County Boards of Education in November:

"To my mind the greatest forward step that has been taken in the direction of a higher standard of education was the ratification of the nineteenth amendment to the Federal constitution of placing the ballot in the hands of women, and for the reason that her influence is essentially more constantly wielded than that of the men in the home life of the children which is the formation period of their character and the most enduring part of it.

"This is not because women realize any more fully than men do the vital importance to the future of the nation of a good clean school system, but because, as the history of civilization from its beginning to the present shows the mother's influence is greater than that of the father over the children of their household. It therefore follows as a matter of course that this added power to aid in consummating her ideals will be exercised to the maximum by her.

"No one will seriously contend that better education will affect the political alignment of the people. It will only better equip them for deciding how to intelligently cast their votes on any political question. They will continue in the future as they have done in the past to entertain divergent views as to what character of legislation and of administration is best calculated to advance the interests of the state and the nation. The point I wish to make is that the question of education should be exalted above political questions and entirely divorced from them.

the educational scale, but there is evidence on every hand that she is now thoroughly aroused. If she will fully realize from this time forth that education can not be promoted without adequate revenue and that the necessary funds must be raised no matter what the cost. I am sure that with the exercise of eternal vigilance on the part of the men and women of the state, with an insistent demand for the best and nothing but the best for the children of Kentucky, and with a conscientious determination to reward our teachers in a way commensurate, at least in some degree (they could not be adequately compensated), with the great work they are doing for our future men and women there is every reason to believe that Kentucky will assume and maintain a position worthy of her in matters educational."

Mrs. Christine Bradley South, the assistant secretary of the Republican National Committee, gave the following statement for publication concerning the New County School Administration Law:

"The seriousness of the crisis through which the world is passing emphasizes the importance of education as the hope of democracy. In so far as is humanly possible, there must be equality of opportunity for education for all the children—rich and poor, native born and foreign born, city and country, white and black, until ignorance everywhere is supplanted by disciplined information. Our children are worthy of better teachers; our teachers are worthy of better pay; democratic education is entitled to the loyal support of all.

"Our schools must be forever divorced from politics. The new County School Administration Law, when properly appreciated and properly applied, will accomplish this end. The best men and women in each county, regardless of political affiliation, should be selected for membership on

Mrs. John W. Langley.

"We must secure a deeper interest on the part of all of our people in this greatest of all movements, for after all has been said and done, we can not fully prepare the children of today for the duties and responsibilities of citizenship that they might later assume unless we succeed in getting public sentiment crystallized behind all strong school movements.

"I believe this is now being accomplished by the recent legislation which has been put into operation and that the good results of these laws will continue to grow as time passes on.

"I sincerely believe that the good women of our state are going to put their whole hearts, their minds, and their strength into this movement and use the ballot accordingly. If they do this success is certain and we will have a happier, brighter and better Kentucky."

When your correspondent asked Mrs. Samuel W. Wilson, committee-man on the Democratic State Campaign Committee, for her views on the recent school laws, which will become effective next November, she said:

"It gives me peculiar pleasure to express my sense of gratitude for this newest evidence of Kentucky's educational awakening, as expressed in the new school laws passed by the last session of the Legislature. We have hoped and worked for so long to take our schools out of politics and to raise the salary of our teachers, that these new laws creating a non-partisan County Board of Education and fixing a minimum salary for teachers give cause for pride and thanksgiving. There is every reason to hope that they will prove a decided step in the right direction. There is no recent step forward, taken by Kentucky, that can compare in far-reaching importance with the laws passed to improve our educational system. All honor to our Democratic and Republican legislators who passed these laws.

"The newly enfranchised women of Kentucky can be of untold service to our state by electing to our County Boards of Education the highest type of men and women available. Men and women proof against partisan temptation, who can be depended on to select county superintendents worthy to be entrusted with the mental training of the future citizens of our state. It has taken Kentucky a long time to come to a full realization of the discreditable position she has occupied in the County School Board. To secure the right of suffrage for women, we have insisted always and everywhere that woman was inclined to feel a more jealous regard for the rights of childhood than man. I know of no more certain way for woman to justify the new privilege and the new responsibility that have come to her than by using her voice and her vote in securing better educational opportunities for the children of Kentucky, and by aiding in the election of county boards that will think in terms of the rights of children rather than in the interest of any party."

HIS HEART WAS RIGHT

An uneducated but honest county superintendent, who lives far back in the hills of Kentucky, recently made the following very unusual and thoroughly pointed speech to a group of people who were interested in the schools:

"Men, when you come to vote for the members of this new County Board of Education, put more Christianity and less politics into your vote. 'You're my friends; but don't think of me in votin', but think of what your vote means to the children.'"

SENATOR BECKHAM'S SPEECH.

Last Wednesday forenoon, about 10 o'clock, Senator J. C. W. Beckham entered Columbia and was kept busy from that time until 1:30 p. m., the hour for making his address, shaking hands with his admirers. Long before the hour of speaking the court auditorium was well filled with Democratic men and women, many of them coming long distances to hear the Senator discuss the issues in the Presidential campaign.

At the hour of speaking Mrs. R. F. Rowe, Vice-Chairman of the Woman's Division, who is a leader among her sex, and who is actively at work in this campaign for the Democratic ticket, and who introduced Senator Beckham.

Mrs. Rowe arose and in a clear, distinct voice, made a brilliant address, giving reasons why the women were in this fight. She said the women wanted to war no more, and that the only way for them to keep their sons off the battlefield was for every mother and every sister to vote for the League of Nations. We are not attempting to quote Mrs. Rowe's language, but to give the points. In closing her address, in most beautiful words, she introduced the Senator and when he arose the crowd went wild.

The Senator spoke for two and one half hours, devoting more than one-half of his address in support of the League of Nations, the main issue in this campaign. Those who were in the audience and not informed were enlightened. He explained Article 10 and other features of the League that have been called in question, showing that the instrument was prepared for no other purpose but to prevent another world war. There were a number of Republicans in the audience and they gave the Senator the closest attention.

Leaving the League he severely criticized the national Republican Convention platform for failing to mention the heroic American boys who fought in Flanders Field. The League he said was not a political question, and he had the same praise for Republican boys, who served their country as he did for the Democratic boys.

He then took up the Federal Reserve Act, passed by a Democratic Congress, making it impossible for another money panic.

The records of Governor Cox and Senator Harding as constructive business men were then compared, showing that the Democratic Candidate for the Presidency had been three times elected Governor of Ohio on account of his ability to do things. Mr. Harding having but few constructive acts to his credit, his record was quickly related.

Altogether it was one of the most logical speeches ever delivered in this court-room.

Before taking his seat he paid high tribute to Judge Ralph Gilbert Democratic candidate for Congress in the Eighth district.

Hon. Virgil Moore spoke in the interest of the Republican National ticket at the court-house Monday. The building was well filled with men and women of his faith, who were well pleased with his address. He spoke along the lines of other Republican speakers.

Transylvania Prespytery met at Lancaster the last session for 1920. Next year it will meet in Columbia on Friday before the 2nd, Sunday in April. Mr. J. P. Dohoney, of this place, represented the church here at Lancaster.
